Urban Cuckoo is an innovative table or wall cuckoo designed by Patrizia Dalla Pace. The designer wants us to see and feel nature even in the city, creating a true representation of sustainable architecture. The green, which symbolically protrudes from the window sills, is realized with stabilized moss. It can be hung on the wall but also put on the office table or among the shelves of the home bookcase. Manufactured with real Corten steel with natural oxidation. The cuckoo battery movement of German design has a photosensitive sensor that makes it not sing when it's dark, and there also buttons that allow you to adjust the intensity of the sound or turn it off altogether.
